

DORIS TRUONG

doris@doristruong.com • doristruong.com • @doristruong

I'm a writer, editor and speaker with daily journalism roots who is experienced in diversity issues, social media strategy and nonprofit management.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- Member of the 2006 and 2008 Pulitzer Prize-winning teams at The Washington Post.
- Oversaw AAJA's MediaWatch watchdog committee, fully updated the "Handbook to Covering Asian America," crafted advisories related to major news events and promoted the association as a media resource.
- Winner of the 2014 Spirit of Diversity Award from Wayne State University, the first time the school honored someone for significant work to further the careers of Asian American journalists.
- Co-chaired The Washington Post's Diversity Committee, which created strategies to improve recruiting, professional development and newsroom outreach.
- Managed the nonprofit Asian American Journalists Association (AAJA) as national president, supervising a paid executive director and overseeing a $1.2 million annual budget.

EXPERIENCE

The Washington Post, 2003 to present

- Weekend Homepage Editor (2014 to present): Direct digital platform strategy and coordinate coverage of early-morning breaking news on weekends, in addition to Homepage Editor responsibilities.
- Homepage Editor (2013-14): Helped determine story mix for washingtonpost.com and the classic apps, analyzed and responded to real-time site metrics, wrote engaging digital headlines and blurbs, selected appropriate multimedia to accompany presentations, and sent breaking-news email and push alerts.
- Multiplatform Editor (2008-13): Edited news content under tight deadlines for print, Web and mobile/tablet platforms. Ensured accuracy, fairness, clarity and sensitivity in text and visuals.
- Deputy Copy Chief (2006-08): Led production and quality control of 13 weekly suburban sections, including sports coverage, while managing a staff of 10 editors. Major annual projects included Voters Guides profiling hundreds of local candidates and listings-heavy Community Guides.
- Copy Editor and Sunday Slot, National Desk (2003-06): Had primary responsibility for producing the 2004 Democratic and Republican political convention preview sections as well as approving A1 headlines for the day with the highest print circulation.

Asian American Journalists Association \(AAJA\), National President, 2011-12

- Supervised AAJA's paid executive director by creating an annual set of benchmarks and ensuring accountability through weekly conversations.
- Managed the $1.2 million annual budget of the 1,700-member, 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization.
- Fundraised directly with individual donors and corporate sponsors, media-related and non.
- Significantly increased AAJA's presence and engagement on social media.
- Motivated volunteer leaders from 21 chapters (including one in Asia) and managed a 28-person volunteer National Advisory Board.
- Oversaw the execution and programming for national journalism conventions attended by as many as 2,000 journalists, recruiters and industry leaders.
- Met regularly with news executives and other journalism associations to further diversity initiatives.

The Dallas Morning News, Copy Editor, 1998 to 2003

EDUCATION

University of Missouri School of Journalism, Bachelor of Journalism (French minor), 1998

DORIS TRUONG

doris@doristruong.com • doristruong.com • @doristruong

AREAS OF EXPERTISE

- Excellent grounding in hard-news coverage, particularly U.S. politics.
- Effective at analyzing site metrics and creating content to deepen user engagement.
- Highly attuned to issues affecting Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders. Well-versed in the Asian American Journalists Association's "Handbook to Covering Asian America." Can effectively communicate with diverse audiences.
- Deep understanding of 501(c)(3) nonprofit structure with more than a decade of experience in nonprofit board management and governance.
- Experienced in speech-writing and delivering presentations to live audiences.
- Engaged user of Facebook, Instagram and Twitter. Solid understanding of many other major social networks.
- Languages: fluent American English, conversational French, basic oral Cantonese-Chinese.

JOURNALISM ACHIEVEMENTS

- Winner of the 2014 Wayne State Spirit of Diversity Award, which honors a journalist whose professional contributions have advanced the cause of diversifying voices in America's news media environment.
- Winner of the 2012 Robinson Prize from the American Copy Editors Society, which recognizes exceptional effectiveness in editing.
- Member of the Washington Post team for the award-winning "Top Secret America" project (2010).
- Member of Washington Post Pulitzer Prize-winning teams: Local Reporting, Breaking News, Virginia Tech shootings (2008); Investigative Reporting, Jack Abramoff corruption aftermath (2006).
- One of two primary copy editors for the 2005 Washington Post Pulitzer finalist in feature writing, "Young and Gay in Real America" (2004).
- Frequent presenter to international audiences, including at events organized by the European Journalism Centre, the Online News Association and Poynter.
- Contest judge, including Associated Press Media Editors' Robert G. McGruder Award for Diversity Leadership and Best of Gannett.

JOURNALISM/LEADERSHIP TRAINING

- 2013: Minority Leadership Institute (American Society of News Editors-American Press Institute).
- 2006: Maynard Media Academy (Northwestern University).
- 2004: Copy editing seminar (Poynter).
- 2003: Executive Leadership Program (Asian American Journalists Association).

AFFILIATIONS

- Asian American Journalists Association (1996 to present; 2011-12 National President)
- Fund for Investigative Journalism Board of Directors (2016 to present)
- UNITY: Journalists for Diversity Board of Directors (2009-14; 2013-14 Vice President)